As one of the three fastest growing counties in the state, Hancock County spent the last year working hard to keep up with increasing demands for services and amenities for both its already existing residents and those on the way. And there are no plans to slow down on projects in the coming year, said County Board of Supervisors president Rock Pullman.

Last year supervisors worked with Pearl River Community College to make a long time dream come true, a college presence

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Happy New Year!

The new year is here and what ever happened last year is now history. Or that matter, if it happened yesterday it is now history.

It is once again the time of year when one has to remember to use the new year's date on checks and other items.

I am sure some of us will be writing 04 on checks and having to change the number to 05.

Many have made resolutions for the New Year and I am sure some have already been broken.

One of the things I do not have to put on my list this year is to lose weight. Right now I would like to add a few pounds.

Good luck to those trying to lose weight.

Many of us are concerned about the war in Iraq as we enter 2005. Hopefully something good will happen and peace will be achieved.

There are so many men and women from our state and nation in harms way.

We are miles and miles away from the war, yet, we sure feel it in this country. Just think about the civilian residents of Iraq, they are mixed in with the fighting whether they want to be or not.

During crisis like the war in Iraq, I always think about the very young children. What an impression it must have on their outlook for life.

One thing we can do, if we so desire, Pray for Peace throughout the world.

It is very interesting that the arrival of the Sisters of St. Joseph in America 150 years ago were headed to Shieldsborough, (Bay St. Louis), Miss.

To commemorate the anniversary of the three Sisters of St. Joseph arriving in America in November, 1854, there will be a Prayer Service at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, at 1 p.m. on January 15, 2005.

A reception will follow for their friends, alumnae and benefactors following the Prayer Service.

The hearts of many women of the area were really broken when St. Joseph's Academy, Bay St. Louis, was closed years back.

Even many men of the community attend St. Joseph's Academy through the third grade, before entering St. Stanislaus.

During St. Joseph's 100 plus years in Bay St. Louis, it was one of the top schools in the area and it was known far and wide, like Stanislaus it was a boarding school too.

As times have change, so has the work of the Sisters of St. Joseph, as they are spread around in many areas such as hospitals, the poor and powerless in inner cities, with sugar cane workers in Louisiana and adult education.

So the work of the sisters of St. Joseph still continues today after 150 years in this country.

Barbour points to lawsuit limits, job training and tax stability in first year

BY EMILY WAGSTER
PETTUS
Associated Press Writer

Nearly a year ago, Haley Barbour left his job as one of the most powerful lobbyists in Washington, a political player with easy access to the top echelons of the Bush administration.

He returned home to become governor of Mississippi, a state whose long-standing poverty seemed to ease during a casino boom of the 1990s but whose budget woes had worsened during the post-9/11 national economic slump.

Admirers say the Yazoo City native, a skilled tactician with a thick-as-sorghum drawl, is making a serious effort to the help solve the budget problems.

Gov. Haley Barbour.

They credit him for fending off tax increases and limiting lawsuits in a state once labeled a "judicial hellhole" because of multimillion-dollar jury awards.

Critics say Barbour has used some of the same budgeting techniques he'd criticized, including taking money from the Department of Transportation to patch holes in other programs. They also say the former Republican National Committee chairman stumbled in one of his major initiatives, an attempt to save millions of dollars in the ballooning Medicaid budget by eliminating benefits for about 50,000 poor, elderly and disabled people.

Sen. Charlie Ross, R-Brandon, said Barbour was right to try to trim Medicaid but "the implementation of the policy wasn't handled as well as it could've been."

Ross said Barbour can be proud of fulfilling campaign promises, including curbing state spending and limiting civil lawsuits. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Ross helped push Barbour's civil-justice changes through the Legislature.

"He's tackling very tough problems that were created before he took office," Ross said. "He's making tough decisions which sometimes displease special interest groups, but that's good for Mississippi, I think."

Joseph Parker, a University of Southern Mississippi political scientist, said Barbour lacks a single, spectacular achievement during his first year.

Parker said the man Barbour unseated, Democrat Ronnie Musgrove, had two trophies his initial year, in 2000: Landing the state's first

Pet Projects

by Paula Leoni

Calling Dr. Dolittle!

What are our pets feeling?

Ask any pet owner if they believe that their pets have feelings and emotions, and the answer will be a resounding "Yes!" Scientific research is beginning to explore the largely ignored questions about animal emotions, and some of the emerging results will hardly be surprising to anyone who lives with pets.

During the 17th century, French philosopher and physicist Rene Descartes performed many experiments on animals. Some of these experiments were incredibly cruel and painful, yet Descartes' view was that animals reacted to stimuli based solely on physical reflex and unthinking response. His notion that animals did not really feel distress or have any sort of emotional response was widely accepted at the time, animals were considered little more than biological versions of the mechanical animatronic figures so popular during that age.

Even today, many researchers tend to tip-toe around the subject of cognizant thought, feelings, and emotions in animals. Some studies of animal emotions are being pursued, and occasionally a project dedicated to another area yields insight into the emotional state of animals.

A gorilla named "Koko" was taught to communicate using pictures and sign language. When Koko's pet kitten died, she signed "Koko feels sad." For the most part, however, scientist prefer to use terms like conditioned response, reflexive behavior, instinct, and association when referring to animals' reactions to events or stimuli. As a dog trainer and student of animal behavior, I recognize and understand the importance of these principles and applications when working with animals, but I also believe that they have a complex emotional life that affects how each animal reacts and learns.

Our pets can't discuss with us the subtle nuances of their every thought, so it's a bit difficult for us to figure out exactly what they're thinking or feeling. Even with our eloquent language skills, we sometimes misunderstand other people's emotions. Our own feelings are not always clear to us; haven't we all acted angry when in fact what we feel is hurt, embarrassed, ashamed, afraid, or even physically sick? As with humans, an animal's response is often a result of many factors, and how we interpret the perceived emotion may or may not be cor-

Barbour -- first year in office

auto manufacturing plant and persuading lawmakers to pass a significant teacher pay raise package.

Parker said Barbour's attempt to trim Medicaid "wasn't exactly a smooth and easy process." After months of public protests, health advocates filed a lawsuit and a federal judge put the cuts on hold until late January. Legislative leaders say they intend to restore the benefits.

You have to wonder if he doesn't wake up mornings thinking, 'Why did I ever leave Washington and come to Mississippi?' Parker said of Barbour. "It's not much fun being governor when your funds are shrinking."

During an interview with The Associated Press last week, Barbour said he doesn't want to be back in Washington.

"I have mornings I wake up and say, 'I wish I was in Yazoo City,'" the 57-year-old governor said with a chuckle.

His wife, Marsha, nodded. She sat by his side through most of the interview in his office on the top floor of the Woolfolk building.

The office has windows overlooking the Capitol across the street, and its decor was chosen by Musgrove during a renovation a few years ago — dark wood paneling, comfortable leather chairs and gray carpet emblazoned with the state seal. The office also has some of Barbour's own touches, including a life-sized cardboard photo cutout of Marsha that she gave him for his birthday so he can see her even when his job consumes most of his time.

Barbour, who appeared relaxed during the interview, named three top accomplishments: enacting lawsuit limits, revamping job-training programs and holding the line on taxes.

He said he's proud of the agency directors he appointed, including nationally known Jackson businessman Leland Speed, who's leading the Mississippi Development Authority.

Barbour said lawmakers approved 12 of the 16 initiatives he outlined in his State of the State address. And, he said, has fulfilled another campaign promise, using his Washington connections to help Mississippi.

He said two businesses coming to the state are represented by David Norcross, who was general counsel at the Republican National Committee when Barbour was the party chairman in the mid-1990s.

Barbour said one of the companies, Future Pipe, is a Lebanese firm that's developing a $15 million plant in Gulfport where it will make large composite-material pipes for the oil industry. He said an Arizona-based business will announce soon that it's opening at Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

Although Barbour has helped elect presidents, senators and congressmen, this is the first time he's held office. He said the governorship is "mostly" what he thought it would be.

He said enacting changes can be difficult and "sometimes it takes longer than you would hope."

State Rep. Steve Holland

says he's considered Barbour a friend for 25 years. But the Democrat from Plantersville has become one of the governor's harshest critics because of Medicaid.

"I'll tell you, there are people who talk to me every day who say, 'I voted for Haley Barbour and I'll not ever do it again,' who are so disappointed in his position on hurting the least and the last and the most vulnerable," Holland said recently. "He obviously wants to balance the budget on the backs of the poor."

Barbour said he was surprised that some lawmakers who approved the Medicaid changes came out just a few days later and switched positions. Barbour didn't name names, but Holland was one of them.

"While I've been pleased with the results and the support the Legislature has given my proposals, we're dealing with hard issues, and sometimes it's contentious," Barbour said. "I don't take things personally and the contentiousness doesn't bother me."

Does he see himself as a two-term governor?

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," Barbour said. "One thing I learned around politicians in my career, particularly from (Ronald) Reagan: You just can't think about the next election because it discolors your thinking."

Pets

rect. Oftentimes, what we think is "guilt" or "spite" on an animal's part might instead be fear, loneliness, boredom, or anxiety. A dog displaying aggressive behaviors might not be "mean" or angry, but frightened, confused, or even ill. We often assign emotions to our pets based on our needs; when I'm feeling down and my dog nudges me, I like to believe he is offering empathy and comfort. I know that it's possible he's simply selfishly soliciting a pet, but that's ok, too!

Is it fair to play a guessing game when it comes to interpreting our pet's emotions? Certainly we do so with other people every day, that's part of what communicating is about. I'm sure I sometimes misconstrue my own pet's feelings, as I sometimes do with people I care for. But having some basic knowledge of animal behavior can help sort out what is probably going on in that furry head, and as long as our reactions to our pets are aimed to help and understand rather than harm, I think acknowledging our animal companion's emotions enhances our bond to them.

Rocks advance to finals of HCHS soccer tourney; SSC takes 5th in Admiral Classic

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw soccer team advanced to the championship game in the Harrison Central Annual Soccer Classic on Tuesday, December 28th.

The Rocks faced Brandon, a state 5A contender, and lost 4-0.

En route to the final game, the Rocks tied Biloxi 2-2 in their first game on Monday, December 27th. Brad Lingsch and Eric Cranford scored one goal each on assists by Patrick Donohoe.

Later on Monday afternoon, the Rocks shutout Hattiesburg 4-0. Donohoe scored twice while Evan Cranford and Andrew Smith-Parker added the other two goals. Jeffrey Yeager and Wynne Taylor tallied assists in the contest.

In their first game on Tuesday, the Rocks defeated host team Harrison Central 3-1. Donohoe scored a hat trick in the game and assists were made by Jimmy Headley (2) and Heath Hansell.

The Rocks then added Gautier to their win list defeating the Gators 3-1. Goals were tallied by Jeffrey Yeager, Andrew Smith-Parker and Eric Cranford.

SSC had won five games in a row prior to the Brandon loss. SSC now sports a 9-2-3 overall record. Division action resumes this week.

On the hardwood, the Rocks (13-4) placed fifth in the Admiral Hardwood Classic on Wednesday, December 29th in Gulfport. SSC defeated Long Beach 59-33 for the spot.

SSC took a 16-8 lead in the first period and extended that to 37-14 with a tremendous defensive effort in the second period.

SSC head coach Jay Ladner stated, "Defensively, we went back to things that work best for us. This was the 11th opponent that we have held under 40 points and when we can do that, it gives us a real good chance at winning the game. We are not an explosive offensive team, but when we can rebound and play solid defense, we have a chance to win some games."

SSC was led by Mike Rice with 26 points and 6 rebounds. Ludovic Dovonu added 15 points. Rice was named to the All-Tournament team for SSC.

The Rocks lost to Patterson High School in the first game on Monday 65-50 but rebounded with an 81-39 win over Pascagoula on Tuesday.

The Admirals won the classic with a 75-71 win over Patterson. In the third place game, Harrison Central defeated Archbishop Rummel 54-48. Pascagoula defeated Morton High School 57-56 in the seventh place game.

The Rocks had advanced to the championship game of the Admiral Hardwood Classic the last two years. They won the title in 2002 and lost in overtime last year.

SSC gets back into division play with a home game against Gautier on Tuesday, January 4th and the Mayor's Cup game on Saturday, January 8th against Bay High at the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium.

Southern Miss Lady Eagles lose to Davidson in Lady Luck Classic

The Davidson Wildcats defeated Southern Miss, 76-60, in the second game of the Lady Luck Classic Wednesday night. The loss drops the Lady Eagles to 4-7, while the win moves Davidson to 6-4.

With the game knotted at 13 points apiece, the Wildcats went on a 20-2 run to pull ahead 33-15 over 6:38. The Lady Eagles then cut the lead to 13 by outscoring Davidson 10-5 to close out the half at 38-25.

"I thought we were focused coming into tonight's game," Head Coach Joyce Lee-McNelis said. "I thought this would be a game where we stepped up big and we hit that wall and we tumbled. It seems like we could never get over that hump. We tried to rally, but we couldn't manage to put together a good offensive possession and then make a defensive stop."

In the first half Southern

Miss was perfect from the charity stripe hitting all nine of their shots, while Davidson was 9-of-11. The Wildcats shot 52 percent and 33 percent behind the three-point line compared to the Eagles 33 percent overall and 0-for-4 from behind the arc.

The big difference in the first half was the points scored off turnovers, with Davidson tallying 20 off of 16 turnovers, to Southern Miss seven from 12.

In the second half, Davidson kept up the pressure, increasing their lead to as much as 23 points late in the period, before closing out the Lady Eagles, 76-60.

For the game Davidson shot 48 percent overall and 26 percent from three-point line, while Southern Miss shot 39 and 14 percent, respectively.

Both teams pulled down 31 rebounds, while the Wildcats had 14 steals compared to the Lady Eagles

10. Davidson had 11 assists and 21 turnovers, and Southern Miss had six assists and 29 turnovers.

Shannon Stueber led the Lady Eagles with 19 points, followed by Liz Biland with 13, and Kelsey Gurganus added 11 points.

Davidson's Katie Hamilton led all players with a game-high 26 points, leading three other Wildcats in double figures, Emily Callahan with 12, Tia Washington with 11 and Jessica Mitchell with 10.

"I think Kelsey (Gurganus) finally looked at the basket tonight," McNelis said. "She has got to be able to score for us. I was pleased that she was able to step up and score for us."

Southern Miss returns home to face Southeastern Louisiana on Jan. 3 in a non-conference contest at 7 p.m., before opening Conference USA play Jan. 7 against TCU.

Tips to get over fitness roadblocks

If you are like most people, you will probably fail to live up to your New Year's fitness resolutions, but knowing your limitations and workout style before you set your goals can help you change that this year.

"If your New Year's resolution is to go from couch potato to running a marathon by May or beginning a new workout for two hours each day, you might be suffering from Unrealistic Resolution Syndrome," cautions Jodie Howell, a physical therapist at Methodist Rehabilitation Center's east campus in Flowood.

"A lot of people try get-fit-quick schemes and wind up getting hurt."

Doing too much too soon invites overuse injuries such as tendinitis, stress fractures and plantar fasciitis, an inflammation of the connective tissues under the foot, says Howell, a Ridgeland resident.

So if you hope to make it into February with your new fitness routine, Howell warns against going gung-ho. "To risk overdoing is far worse than under-doing. Stress fractures can take you out for six to eight weeks. Tendinitis can be a problem for months. You need to set your goals realistically."

Howell recommends consulting your doctor before beginning exercise program.

"It's never good to start an aerobics or aggressive cardiovascular program without a complete physical," Howell said. "Once you are cleared by your doctor to begin exercising, the next step is to learn to do the exercises properly and to establish a routine."

Try to avoid putting it off until tomorrow or the next day, next week or next year, advises Howell. Your first goal should be to do something on the schedule you've set, she adds.

Don't negotiate your objectives or give excuses, Howell says, and make sure you have the tools needed for change.

"Different techniques work for different people," says Howell. "The test is figuring out what works for you and how to deal with the obstacles you face."

ects on the table. The city began 2004 with the completion and closeout of major capital improvement projects including a CDBG. Facilities Project for the ADA Improvements to city buildings, including a $500,000 project to upgrade the 125 year old City Hall. Among other improvements the project added an elevator, widened doors, and added handicapped accessible rest rooms.

The completion and renovation of the Waveland Branch of the Hancock County Library has gone a long way in meeting the ever increasing demands of a growing community. The $600,000 project included a children's section, computer terminals and lab, and increased book reference research and DVD materials for checkout. The new library also includes what has become a very popular conference and meeting facility.

The first phase of the renovation of the old

Waveland Elementary School on Coleman Avenue was completed in 2004. The $400,000 project completed the structural renovation, including upgrades to meet A.D.A. requirements, plumbing, electrical, and sub-floor.

Two thousand-four saw the ground breaking and ribbon cutting of a new Peoples Bank, Keesler Federal Credit Union, Dollar Tree, Sears, Sonix, Pearl River Community College at the site of the old Walmart, and others.

2005 will see ground breaking on a new Catfish One, International Dairy Queen, Lowes and others, including a multi-million dollar retail/residential complex on Coleman Avenue and a multi-million dollar retail/professional plaza on Highway 90.

A number of new housing starts and subdivisions were built and filled in 2004. 2005 will have the second phase of two of these subdivisions and Waveland will see the beginning of the new Emerald Lake Subdivision on Nicholson Ave., as well as an upscale condominium project off Waveland Avenue and Highway 90.

Early 2005 will see the opening of the bids and work underway on many much anticipated capital improvement projects including the overlay, striping and drainage work on Nicholson Avenue and the overlay and striping of Waveland Avenue.

The lighting of Highway 90 and Highway 603 is also expected to be completed in 2005.

Financing has also been secured for $1 million of street refurbishing and overlay throughout the city.

Other capital projects slated for 2005 are the continued work addressing infiltration and rehab of the sewer collection system, along with a $1.5 million C.D.B.C. project to expand the sewer collection system to meet present and future demand. A $3 million Corps of Engineers Water System Project to replace older lines and expand the system to meeting growing future demand will continue in 2005.

2004 ended with the city presenting evidence in favor of a proposed annexation of a business corridor along Hwy. 603 and neighborhoods surrounding that area. A judge is expected to make a decision on the matter in mid-2005.

The New Year will also see the documentation of more historic sites in Waveland through the National Department of Archives and History. Slated for documentation early this year are the Jean Lafitte Pirate House on Beach Boulevard and the Old Brown's Vineyard and Winery on Highway 90.

The city became a venue for Cruisin' the Coast for the first time in 2004, and broke the Guinness Book of World Records for the most Christmas carolers singing for the longest time at the Festival of Lights in December.

The city provided the meeting place for a national competition of law enforcement canines.

2005 will continue with a spirit of openness and cooperation between city officials and citizens to meet the needs of a growing progressive community, said Longo.

in Hancock County. College credit classes were offered first at Bay High School and now at PRC's new campus in the old Walmart building on Hwy. 90 and Hwy. 603. Continuing education classes will also be offered at the campus.

2004 saw the finish of major renovations to the County Courthouse on Main St. in Bay St. Louis. Renovations brought the building up to ADA standards. Plans for about half a million dollars worth of new roofs and further improvements on county buildings are on the table for 2005.

The year also saw the kick-off of a new high tech park at Hwy. 603 and I-10 which planners hope will draw new businesses and support businesses for Stennis Space Center. Also put on the table was plans for Infinity, a state of the art science and math learning center near the welcome center at I-10. The Navy confirmed plans for a new live-fire riverine training facility on the Pearl River.

About $4 million in improvements to county roads, bridges and drainage will be underway in 2005, funded through a recently passed bond issue. 2004 saw the completion of the resurfacing of the Stennis Airport Rd. Work will continue on Lower Bay Rd., Dummy Line Rd. and the Kiln DeLisle Rd.

Work on the Caesar Necaise Bridge and approach got underway in December. Rights of way have finally been acquired which will clear the way for a project that will pave Texas Flat Rd. all the way to Stennis Space Center. Working with MDOT, the county was able to install traffic lights at the Hwy. 603 and I-10 intersection.

A sand beach project at Bayou Caddy inspired developers to move forward with the Silver Slipper Casino project, which will be built at the site of the old Jubilee Casino. Two other casinos have been proposed for the county, one at Bayou Caddy and one at Clermont Harbor. A beach renourishment project and a project to make needed repairs to the sea wall are also on the table over the coming year.

Pullman says that he and county government will continue to work with developers to bring in the kinds of new business and industry that will benefit everyone in the county.

Updates to zoning ordinances and serious work to decrease fire insurance rates will be on the table for 2005, he said. The county recently approved new federally mandated storm water, construction runoff and flood ordinances. Three new fire trucks were added to the BaySide, Clermont Harbor, and West Hancock Volunteer Fire Departments. East Hancock Fire Department has plans for an expansion to their facility.

At McLeod Park several new RV sites were added. At Bayou Caddy 2004 saw the start of a phase two of a marina project. The year also saw improvement to several county piers including the Pearlinton Pier and the Napoleon Boat Launch. In 2005 a new walking trail will be added at the Kiln Library Branch. The Farmer's Market on Longfellow Rd. was doubled in size this past year. Work will continue toward finding the funding for a community center and special needs shelter.

The county will also receive grant funding for a waste enforcement officer to help enforce county litter laws. A grant will also be available to help with the disposal of used tires which can be dropped for disposal at the County Barn.

Top at the agenda for 2005, besides improvement of fire insurance ratings, Pullman said will be the improvement of emergency response times for rural areas, tougher enforcement of the county's recently passed viscous dog ordinance, adding treatment capacity to the county's waste water treatment system, getting treated wastewater out of the county's waterways to an overland discharge, and bringing good businesses into the county.

Bay --

Extensive paving and drainage projects begun in 2004 will continue into 2005. Besides the resurfacing of more than 30 city streets, funds are in place for a $1 million project to completely refurbish Main St. from the beach to Hwy. 90. This will include street resurfacing, needed drainage improvements, and sidewalk replacement where needed to make them handicapped accessible, said Mayor Eddie Favre.

Funds are also in place to add sidewalks along Old Spanish Trail from Washington back to Main St., Favre said. Applications for a project to completely refurbish Washington from Old Spanish Trail to Hwy. 90 have also been submitted for funding, Favre said, and will include a widening of the street and the addition of much needed sidewalks.

A major $1.4 million refurbishing project of Drinkwater and Green Meadow Rd. was completed in 2004. That project included the addition of a stoplight on Hwy. 90 making access to and from Hancock Medical Center much safer.

Always the good hosts, the city provided a home for the Dixie Girls World Series softball competitions for nine and ten year olds and in 2005 the city will host the series again for all ages. The city was also home to the Regional Special Olympics and it will host the event again next year along with the first ever Art Games for Seniors Olympics.

With sports an important part of life in the Bay, the city has set aside funds for the construction of two new soft ball fields for the girl's softball program. Also planned is the re-lighting of Commagere Park.

The city also hosted a part of the Municipal League's National Conference, with directors from 43 states attending the event. Next year the city will be the home of the Small Cities Conference hosted by the League. The event will be attended by officials and their families from all over the state. Favre wrapped up a year as Municipal League president, which was an honor and a real learning experience, he said.

The city was also host to a national competition of law enforcement canines, with competitions held at several locations around town. The Hancock County Historical Society held a "photo show" at the Bay St. Louis Train Depot, which contained hundreds of long lost photographs of area residents taken by photographer Anthony J. Scaffidi. Visitors were invited to help identify the photographs.

A new fire truck has been ordered and will arrive early next year. The addition of the new truck will help the city maintain its level five fire insurance rating.

Hosts to Cruisin' the Coast for years, the city, like all the host cities this year experienced a loss over past years due to extremely bad weather for several days of the event. Hopefully 2005 will find the event back in full swing next year, with a little luck from the weather, the mayor said.

With elections coming up in June, Favre says he plans to run again. "I hope to be able to have the opportunity to serve the city for another four years, he said.

Markets -- new owners

commitment to the communities they serve.

Lakeview Fine Foods, based in Louisiana, purchased four Choice Markets from Howard, Hamilton, including the two Hancock-area stores, and the Choice Markets in Long Beach and at Hardy Court in Gulfport.

"We're very excited to be a member of the Gulf Coast community," Ciacio said. "Lakeview Fine Foods has been in operation for 10 years. Our store philosophy is to have a tremendous amount of variety and quality products, as well as strong community involvement, and that's the same commitment we'll be bringing to these stores.

"We want to get involved with the area churches and schools and businesses. ... It ends up being a rewarding experience for both the communities and us."

"I enjoy the community involvement. I live in Lakeview. ... As I tell people, I'm actually a lawyer because I have to be. I'm a grocery owner because I want to be."

Lakeview Fine Foods doesn't plan any major personnel changes, either, Ciacio said.

"We're going to keep all of the employees," he said. "It's an excellent group of people that we're very excited to be working with."

Ciacio said there would be a grand opening for Diamondhead Fine Foods, Waveland Fine Foods, Long Beach Fine Foods and Hardy Court Fine Foods some time within the next 30-45 days.

Lakeview Fine Foods' supplier is Associated Grocers (AG), a co-op based in Baton Rouge.

"Associated Grocers has more than 300 retailers over four or five states," Ciacio said. "AG has a lot of buying power, so we're able to keep the prices low for our customers."

Hamilton opened the Diamondhead Super Market 20 years ago, and the Waveland Market Center in 1999.

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! Your profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off.

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Since 1892, The Sea Coast Echo is proud to be a part of your community.

Local Girl Scouts win GSA's highest honor

Eight Girl Scouts: Allison Calhoun, Bekki Hightower, Meghan Lind, Sara Maya, Madison McCarty, Mallory McCarty, Sarah Perwien, and Jamie Thompson from Troop 831 of Diamondhead and Kiln, recently earned the Girl Scout Bronze Award. This is the highest award for a Junior Girl Scout. The girls had to earn several patches in connection with the award, and then do a community service project. The girls decided that for their project they wanted work with some young children in the area. They also wanted to raise money to go to the Build-a-Bear Workshop and make teddy bears for these children to have their own special friend.

The troop contacted the new Boys and Girls Club in Bay St. Louis, and they were happy to have the girls come down and work with a group of five and six year old girls. The girls took turns going to the club on Wednesday afternoons throughout the summer and doing arts and crafts and playing games with them. Earlier in the summer the troop had held a hot dog concession stand, bake sale, and donation collection outside K-mart to raise money to go to the Build-a-Bear Workshop in New Orleans. They went in July and made twenty bears, the staff at Build-a-Bear were nice enough to donate three more bears for a total of twenty-three bears. At the end of the summer the girls went to the Boys and Girls Club and put on a party for the group of girls, gave them the bears, and also told them about what it was like to be a Girl Scout and what sort of activities Girl Scouts may do.

The girls of Troop 831, and Troop Leader Diane Hightower, would like to thank the following people who helped make this project a success: Richie Santiago, and staff of the Boys and Girls Club, Build-a-Bear Workshop, K-mart, Wendy's, Dr. Sauls, and of course, the parents who helped out whenever needed.

It Is Easy to Criticize

Offering constructive criticism to others can be beneficial, but only if the other person is receptive to our comments. In teaching situations or during on-the-job training, constructive criticism is usually necessary to instruct and help a person develop a trade or vocation. However, correcting someone, even in a kind or skillful manner, can be very challenging, since we are never sure how the individual may react. Many friendships and families have been destroyed because someone has been overly critical of another person's words or actions. Knowing when we should offer our comments can also be difficult, and we should be fairly certain that our comments are truthful and necessary. It often seems so easy to criticize others because we mistakenly believe that we are without fault or are such experts on most everything. The Bible tells us that we look at the speck in our brother's eye, but we pay no attention to the log in our own (Luke 6:41). Faultfinding and being overly critical of others, especially behind their backs, are wrong and can become habit-forming. However, kind words are good for the soul and help to build a person up.

The way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
But a wise man listens to advice.

Happy New Year

"Happy New Year!" will be on the lips of each one of us as the old year 2004 passes into the new year 2005. Since all of us suffer from adult attention deficit disorder (AADD) in some items of our lives, it behooves us to be reminded what we are saying.

First of all, it is the height of presumption to assume that any of us will be around at the end of 2005. "Happy New Year!" is too big a gulp. But so is half a year, one month or even a week. Frankly, tomorrow is more than we have any assurance for surviving.

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Sure, we can hazard what seems to be a safe bet that practically all the newborn, most children and the vast majority of young adults will be around for 2006. Don't mortgage the house on that bet. At best, as we well know, it is still a crapshoot as to who will live.

As usual, this year has once more proven to be a stern reminder that death is not the exclusive province of the aged, but also of the middle-aged and even the young. Many of the funerals I have conducted or attended this year involved people much younger than I.

The longer we live, the more frequently we are alarmed at contemporaries, give or take a few years, who are dropping around us and checking out for entry into our Father's kingdom. To put it bluntly, it forces us to count the days which may be remaining for us.

Our perspective in counting our days shifts radically as we move into the midst of Psalm 90's allotment of our days: "The sum of our years is 70; if we are strong, 80." The count gets shorter and shorter until, all of a sudden, it sputters and stops.

Even while typing this, I answered the doorbell. The young man standing there had a delivery for me, joyfully identifying himself as an alumnus of Xavier University where we knew each other. He spoke proudly of his grown children, then added with a smile:

"I'm 53 now. I can start thinking of retiring."

Younger adults speak blithely, even longingly about retirement and the blessed days of leisure and recreation soon to follow. Those days may be blessed, but they are far from endless, unfortunately. If our transit from childhood through our years of work is brief to the point of bewilderment, how much swifter will our short years of retirement be?

Yes, we are constantly biting off more than we can chew. Worse, we are attempting to bite off something we do not even know we have in the way of days, let alone years. We assume blindly that we have X amount of time to bargain with in our lives.

"Happy New Year!" sounds wonderful, but it is at most an expression of wistful hope that we can and will survive the next 365 days. We know for a cold fact that some of the eyes we are gazing into on New Year's Day will soon be permanently shut.

When it will be our turn, none of us know. However, that is no cause for sadness or depression. It is simply a fact of life that we take turns leaving this earth. Meanwhile, we have a whole world, even a universe, to admire and enjoy each day, every hour.

More importantly, we have people, particularly our beloved family members, and to hold as precious gifts of God. These relatives are the most basic stuff of which our lives are made, so that we are able to appreciate each day because of them. Our main hardship concerning our kith and kin is final separation due to the inevitability of death.

Well, our dear friends are next in line as God's special gifts to us. Despite all the irony of "Happy New Year!" and the certainty that some of us will not survive the whole of 2005, the gift of relatives and friends makes even shortened lives a true blessing.

"Happy New Year!" is really a cool, pleasing way of greeting our relatives and friends at the beginning of each year, in spite of the fact that we are engaging in overbite when we dare to wish each other the very best God has to give during the next 12 months.

We must only beware not to be caught up in the illusion that everyone who says

"Happy New Year!" is destined to survive until the following year. Intoxicated we may be by some elements of life, but we had better be sober enough to know better than that.

Following hot on the heels of the emotional, joyous Christmas carols, the bitter-sweet melancholy of Auld Lang Syne, bearing decades of deep-seated, treasured memories of family gatherings and celebrations, pierces our innermost feelings and longings.

Most of us have childhood memories of humongous gatherings of family and friends at Christmas time and on New Year's Eve. With people overflowing the family house, the very yard was hard put to contain the talkative, laughing, celebrating throng.

Alternating between the silky-sweet strains of Auld Lang Syne and "Happy New Year" punctuated by fireworks, the numerous celebrants created a humming, beehive effect with their talk, their singing, their exchange of greetings and their laughter.

The very memory of this huge family phenomenon had such an intoxicating, indelible effect on our minds that there is nothing comparable to it down to this very day. It is no wonder, then, that we feel such emptiness and deprivation as the irrepressible attrition of terminal illness and death trims the throng of our relatives and friends down to a handful.

"Happy New Year!" carries with it all the sweet memories of happy times with large gatherings of relatives and friends. Likewise, it brings with it the heavy baggage of the trying times of sickness and final separation. Small wonder that the lyrics and strains of Auld Lang Syne are at once so sweet and so very melancholy.

All this notwithstanding, the bitter-sweet memories of the holidays/holydays are very indicative of many blessings deep inset into our culture, heritage and family history. We are so very blessed in the family members and friends we once had on earth through the grace of God, and we will be thrice blessed to enjoy them again in our Father's kingdom.

There remains only for us to minimize "Happy New Year!" by exploiting and enjoying each single day as God gives it to us. "Happy New Day!" every day.

Scripture Says

By Ed Young

A Blessed New Year

This country which is very materialistic is engulfed in much decision making without God's knowledge and wisdom considered.

Jesus said, "man will not live by bread alone" (Matthew 4:4). To most people, that's just an off the cuff saying; not in anyway a truth that is practical to them.

When Jesus made this statement to Satan he was telling him it's not done your way, but God's way. Life does not really function the way you would have people believe.

Jesus says, it is written, man shall not live by bread alone. It is written. In other words, this is the way God says to appreciate life and live your life. Do it by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God (Matthew 4:4).

Reading the Word of God, which is the Holy Scriptures which enhances confidence when different concerns and problems arise.

Certainly money plays a part in daily life, but it's only a tool of trade.

One might say, Oh! Just open the bible and it will tell me what to do or not to do. Not word for word. However, surprisingly enough when you consult the Lord about a problem you have, He will help you. The answer is yes.

Shouldn't it be wonderful to read daily God's love letters to you? A wonderful New Year's resolution to begin. Have a blessed New Year!

The "Word" for the Week

Dennis J. Bruto

More honesty is badly needed in our lives today

In a survey of 2,000 high achieving students, age sixteen-seventeen years; eighty percent said cheating was common in their school.

Seventy-eight percent of these admitted cheating. Professional people, attending a Harvard Business School-seminar on ethics, were given a standard for behavior. Don't do anything that will get in the newspaper. Publicity is bad. What about the conduct that causes the publicity? The best advice is simply, don't get caught. This is a far cry from the honesty and fidelity homes and societies need to function smoothly. If you can cheat and not get caught, is it really OK? Is this what marriage is all about? Is this what family life is all about? If you lie to your parents and don't get caught, is it really OK? Is this what business is all about? If you cheat on your expense account and don't get caught, is it really OK? No, it is not all right. One of the Ten Commandments in the Bible states, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). I know some folks can't stand morality being shoved down their throats. So be it. If you don't want to live by God's commandments, as many people don't, you can expect more cheating in schools, more cheating in marriages and more cheating in businesses. Can you live with that alternative?

New exhibit based on Ambrose's work to open

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Louisiana State Museum unveils a new traveling exhibit at the Old Courthouse Museum in Natchitoches, entitled, "The Mississippi and the Making of a Nation," on January 14, 2005.

Based on National Geographic's 2002 book of the same name written by historians Douglas Brinkley and the late Stephen Ambrose, it features 45 images by National Geographic Contributing Photographer-in-Residence Sam Abell, who journeyed along the river with Ambrose and Brinkley. Twelve of the photographs in the exhibition were not published in the book. Abell's images span from the dramatic (a great blue heron takes flight) to the whimsical (the "fishing wall of fame" at a Louisiana bait shop); from the known (a paddlewheel frames the St. Louis Arch) to the remote (the Mississippi beginning as a "trickle" near Lake

The late Stephen Ambrose. Itasca, Minn.)

The photographs in the exhibit, some of which are over five feet in length, were digitally reproduced on a Durst Lambda 130 and were printed on Fuji Crystal Archive paper. Abell, Ambrose and Brinkley traveled the entire 2,350-mile length of the Mississippi River, from its mouth at Levittown, La., on the Gulf of Mexico to its source in Lake Itasca, Minn., to publish the new book from National Geographic marking the bicentennial of the Louisiana Purchase.

Journeying by river, road and air, Abell, Ambrose and Brinkley explored the towns and countryside along the way to bring readers the full, rich history of the river and the significant impact it has had on American life.

The exhibition will also include a selection of model boats that further tell the story of the development of our nation, due to the Mississippi River. Included in the display will be a Civil War ironclad, several paddle wheelers, a showboat, and an array of more modern shipping vessels that transport goods and services throughout our country. These models are hand built and many are of original design. The models are generously loaned by the Civil and Korean War Naval Museum of Arcadia, La. and the U. S. S. Kidd and Veterans Memorial Museum of Baton Rouge, La.

"The Mississippi is the spiritual heart and economic backbone of America and is woven into the very fiber of this country. It encompasses nearly everything we stand for from our culture to our history and music," said Lieutenant Governor Mitch Landrieu, who oversees Louisiana's Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism.

Ambrose was a National Geographic Explorer-in-Residence and the best-selling author of 16 books, including "Undaunted Courage," "D-Day" and "Band of Brothers." He died October 13, 2002.

Brinkley is director of the Eisenhower Center for American Studies and professor of history at the Tulane University in New Orleans.

He is the author of 10 books, including "The Magic Bus: An American Odyssey" and "Rosa Parks."

Abell is a National Geographic Contributing Photographer-in-Residence, whose work has been published by National Geographic for three decades.

His books include "Seeing Gardens" and "Stay This Moment."

Robot gathers info about Mars on new 'Nova'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Despite some harrowing moments, the Mars rover Opportunity made it to its one-year landing anniversary.

On Tuesday, Jan. 4, PBS' science series "Nova" airs the episode "Welcome to Mars," which reviews the engineering and science success of Opportunity and its slightly more troublesome twin, Spirit.

Last January, "Nova" aired "Mars Dead or Alive," which chronicled the rover's nail-biting creation and landings. With 90-Martian-day warranties from the overcautious engineers at Jet Propulsion Laboratories in Pasadena, Calif., the rovers sought to answer questions about water and possible conditions for life to exist.

In November, good luck befell Opportunity, which has been exploring the Red Planet since this time last year. Scientists had worried that dust on the rover's solar panels would eventually impede its ability to produce electricity. But overnight, the rover experienced a 2-5 percent power boost.

While fancy suggests a helpful alien with a feather duster, the likely truth is more mundane.

"The best explanation," NASA space-systems engineer Gentry Lee says, "is that a dust devil blew some of the accumulated dust off."

A combination of hard work and luck has kept Opportunity and Spirit alive. "Transformational," Lee says of the science. "Look what they've done, my goodness sakes. They each did a mission near where they landed, and now they have done another mission. Spirit has done a completely new mission in the Columbia Hills, found all sorts of strange things, and Opportunity's done one in Endurance Crater. As the scientists were telling me yesterday, we're not done yet."

Old age will one day claim the rovers, but there's no immediate end in sight.

"We dodged a lot of bullets," says JPL chief engineer Rob Manning. "Dodging bullets is the name of the game. It's about making calculated risks. We were so wired last year. In a sense, it's taken us a year to come down from that high."

Horoscope This Week

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

A desire to expand your horizons will overtake you. Why not try studying something new?

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Planning for the future is a highlight at this time. It involves money, of course. You're not getting any younger.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

You could find that special someone soon if you keep your mind open. This time around will be different.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

Charitable actions will serve you better than anything else you have planned. Give of yourself, and you will receive.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

Your creative process is unique, and you'll get to show it off soon. Plan to surprise even those who know you well.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Sticking close to home is very appealing to you now. Go ahead and shut out the world. You can catch up later.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

The more you talk, the less people around you know about you. Seems you've been a mystery, but you'd have it no other way.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

Enjoy what you have. If you are seeking more, you won't find it with money.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Take stock of why people are attracted to you right now. Harness that energy and use it when you feel less than adequate.

Celebrity Scoop

Shannon Lucio

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Very few newcomers get to join an established hit series with the kind of story line hoopla that Shannon Lucio has enjoyed on "The O.C."

Since debuting on the Fox Thursday soap in November as bright and beautiful new student Lindsay Gardner, Lucio has found herself paired with resident teen stud Ryan Atwood (Benjamin McKenzie) and taken the first tentative steps to romance, only to discover that (startling musical chord!) she is actually the illegitimate half sister of Ryan's adoptive mom, Kirsten (Kelly Rowland).

Thanks to her very own Christmukkah miracle, however, things look pretty bright right now for both Lindsay and her real-life alter ego.

"The cast has just been so incredibly warm and welcoming," Lucio says. "Almost immediately I felt like, 'Oh, this is home for right now. I feel OK being here.' Lindsay is having a little rougher time than I am, I think."

Lucio grew up in San Antonio, Texas, where she proved herself to be highly competitive. "I think it's just in my nature," she says. In fact, she had aspirations of competing cross-country in the Olympics until a knee injury curtailed her future in long-distance running.

Like castmates McKenzie, Rowan, Peter Gallagher and Mischa Barton, Lucio comes to the prime-time soap from a strong theater background.

"Having that training allows me to figure out what I need to do for each scene," she says. "It also gives you stamina to deal with crazy scheduling and late hours. Sometimes you'll have to do a big scene and the 'magic' just isn't there for you, for whatever reason, so it really helps to have that technical training to draw on."

Birthday: June 25
Hometown: Born in Denver but grew up in San Antonio, Texas.

Family ties: Father is a prison guard; mother works in retail management. One younger sister.

Education: University of Southern California School of Theatre.

Previous TV guest credits: "ER," "NYPD: Blue," "CSI: Miami," "The Division."

Film credits: Stars as Carl Ann Fugate in the independent film "Starkweather," scheduled for DVD release in February 2005.

Hobbies: Hiking, playing basketball, drawing, painting, reading, cheering the San Antonio Spurs basketball team.

Pets: A Pomeranian named Brutus and a sheltie named Lady Bird Johnson ("My dad is fixated on LBJ").

Sports Best Bets

"ESPN 100" Monday, Jan. 3 (ESPN, 8 p.m.-ET): It's probably a pretty safe bet that the Red Sox's World Series victory will be at the top of the list when the network counts down the biggest sports stories of 2004. But there are plenty of contenders for second and third place and beyond, from the Athens Olympics and the NHL lockout to the Super Bowl halftime "wardrobe malfunction," the Pacers-Pistons brawl and the recent revelations about drug use in Major League Baseball.

"College Football" Tuesday, Jan. 4 (ABC, 8 p.m.-ET): The undefeated Auburn Tigers would disagree, but the Orange Bowl national championship game between USC and Oklahoma pits the two most complete teams in college football. You want star power? How about four of the top five finishers in the Heisman Trophy race, topped by USC quarterback Matt Leinart (2,990 yards, 28 TDs). Oklahoma running back Adrian Peterson (1,843 yards) was second, Sooners QB Jason White finished third and Trojans RB Reggie Bush placed fifth.

"NFL Football" Saturday, Jan. 8 (ABC, 4:30 p.m.-ET): The NFL postseason gets under way today with the first of two wild-card games, followed on Sunday by two more wild-card matchups. Then it's the divisional playoffs on Jan. 15-16, the conference championship games on Jan. 23, and the obligatory two-weeks of non-stop hype prior to Super Bowl XXXIX on Feb. 6 in Jacksonville, Fla.

NBC hopes this 'Medium' is a rare hit

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

It doesn't take psychic powers to know the NBC drama "Medium," premiering Monday, Jan. 3, faces an uphill climb.

It has tough opposition in its time slot in CBS' "CSI: Miami," and NBC's track record of launching new dramas this year has been less than stellar; of three, only one, "Medical Investigation," still stands.

But "Medium" gets points for three things: star Patricia Arquette, who brings an indie-film sensibility; creator-writer Glenn Gordon Caron, who already earned his TV immortality for "Moonlighting" (and a soft spot in many hearts for the brilliant but short-lived "Now and Again"); and the fact that it's trying to take a fresh spin on the crime procedural, an overworked genre if there ever was one, especially this year.

This last point, of course, has not escaped Caron. "I'll grant you," he quips, "there's probably not enough crime shows on television. We need another one."

Inspired by the real-life story of self-proclaimed "research medium and criminal profiler" Allison DuBois, "Medium" stars Arquette as Allison, a Phoenix wife, mother and law student interning in the local district attorney's (Miguel Sandoval) office.

In the pilot, Allison decides to test whether the psychic impressions she gets about crimes might just be true and winds up working a case with the Texas Rangers. Along the way, she sees and converses with dead people, divines the sequences of events in a crime, locates a dead body, reads thoughts, and can sense a man's medical condition. At the same time, she's a devoted wife to aerospace engineer Joe (Jake Weber) and mother to daughters Ariel and Bridget (Sofia Vassilieva, Maria Lark), along with a new baby girl.

All this might seem a bit much even for television, but according to DuBois, it's just another day in the life.

"The pilot's pretty accurate," she says from her home in Phoenix. "I was interning in homicide to be a prosecutor, filling in the gaps of crimes. I wanted to prove that I was really doing that, so I faxed some missing-persons cases to law enforcement around the country, expecting them to tell me I was full of it, and the Texas Rangers ended up getting back to me."

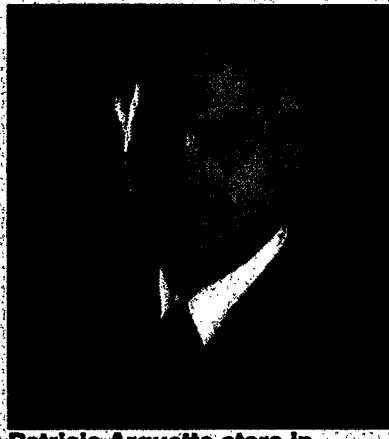

As for her powers, DuBois insists it's all true, even a scene used in promos for the show where she awakens in the night to a bedroom full of the departed.

"I see them all the time, so I'm used to it now," she says. "But that was in the beginning, when I didn't want to hear them or see them. That was a very pivotal moment for me, if I'm going to do this or go seek help. But that happened."

Executive producer Kelsey Grammer encountered DuBois when she auditioned for a reality-show pilot for Paramount that never was produced. A Paramount executive then called Caron, who was living in New York at the time.

"He said, 'Do you believe in psychics?'" Caron recalls. "I said, 'Um, probably not.' He said, 'There's a woman that I've met through Kelsey Grammer, and I think her life might make an interesting foundation for a television series.'"

Caron flew to Los Angeles and met with DuBois. "I found her story fascinating," he says. "To me, the key is the ardor with which she told it. I never felt it was my job to judge her in that sense. I felt it was my job to take her measure, to say, 'This is her perspective on the world. This is how she sees things. Is there something I can bring to the party as a storyteller, and frankly, is there something I can take away as a storyteller to make an interesting television show?' And there was."

While the real DuBois projects a buttoned-down image, Caron's idea for the fictional Allison was to find the contrast between a working mom and a working psychic. Rather than DuBois' real-life look, or the more cliché image of a flamboyant woman with long earrings and a caftan, Caron opted for a third choice.

Hey, 'Joan of Arcadia': Who's your daddy?

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

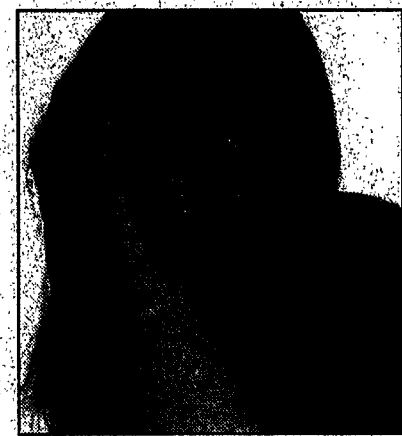

Q Is Amber Tamblyn of "Joan of Arcadia" the daughter of Russ Tamblyn of the movie "West Side Story"? -Betsy Viane, McKinney, Texas

A Indeed she is. In fact, her dad has guest starred in several episodes of the CBS show.

Q Since "dr. vegas" has been canceled, should we expect Sarah Lancaster to return to "Everwood"? -Will, Atlanta

A Nothing was firm at this writing, but we wouldn't rule it out, especially since her "Everwood" character, Madison, is still mentioned if not seen on The WB Network show. Before CBS gave "dr. vegas" its last spin, Lancaster—who is absolutely charming—we might add—told us she would love to return to the Utah set of "Everwood" anytime, since she is very fond of the cast and crew members. New episodes start up this month, so stay tuned.

Q I am curious about a television series that ran in syndication during the early or mid-1990s. The series was called

Amber Tamblyn

"Bandit" and was based loosely on "Smokey and the Bandit." I don't recall who starred in the series, but it was a young man with dark hair and very blue eyes. I have been wondering who he is for years. -Becky Allmond, Donalds, S.C.

A He's Brian Bloom, who won a Daytime Emmy Award for playing a part he originated, Dusty Donovan, on the venerable CBS serial "As the World Turns." Although he's not seen as regularly these days, Bloom remains active, having guest starred in a November episode of "CSI: Miami." The four "Bandit" TV movies were included in an "Action Pack" syndicated by Universal Television.

Q My family missed the show "When Angels Come to Town" with Peter Falk. We heard it was a good show, and he is one of my favorites. Do you know if this show will be repeated? If not, why not? -Marty E., Hicksville, N.Y.

A Easy there...let's give CBS a chance first. The network tends to repeat any of its new holiday TV movies at least once during the following season, especially if it's a ratings hit like this one. We'd be willing to bet that the film will resurface next holiday season.

Corbin Bernsen makes his directing debut

Corbin Bernsen

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Timing is everything. Just ask "General Hospital" star Corbin Bernsen, also president of Public Media Works, an independent production company with the feature film "Carpool Guy" on its slate. Bernsen was set to make his film directing debut, but he also wanted to play Jeanne Cooper's (his real-life mother) son.

"To be one of the leads in the movie, you had to be on a soap," says the actor. "That was one of the game rules, which is part of the reason I jumped into the role of John Durant when it came along. It was serendipity."

Starring Rick Hearst, Tony Geary and Leslie Kay from "GH," Cooper, Laureale Bell and Kristoff St. John from "The Young and the Restless," Sean Kanan from "The Bold and the Beautiful," and Patrika Darbo from "Days of our Lives," "Carpool Guy" is a black comedy detailing the pitfalls of two men (Hearst and Kanan) who aspire to climb the corporate ladder.

In addition to starring numerous soap stars, "Carpool Guy" has another unique feature. Fans will be allowed to watch the behind-the-scenes action and provide input into the filmmaking process through the company's Web site, www.publicmediaworks.com.

Essentially, we pull back the curtain and let them see what is happening and how it is done," says Bernsen, who began his career on ABC's "Ryan's Hope." "As we get to post-production, we are going to let fans make selections of things, such as the movie's poster and possibly, some of the music."

Shooting started in December, and Bernsen, who can only get his stars together on weekends because of their schedules, is hoping to wrap by the end of February, with the final film ready for release this summer.

Dear Paulette: I heard that the role of Alistair Crane on "Passions" is being recast. Is it true? -Betty B., Northridge, Calif.

Dear Reader: Sadly, David Bailey, the actor who played Alistair, drowned in an accident over Thanksgiving weekend, so of necessity, the role will be recast. The 71-year-old is survived by his wife, Yvonne, and a son and daughter. Bailey's last air date is Jan. 13.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
Fear Factor

And you thought "Temptation Island" was tough on relationships. The new "Couples, Episode 1" kicks off a season-long competition in which eight married, engaged or dating pairs compete for a $1 million prize. In tonight's featured stunt, the men hang by their ankles from helicopters over a lake, each holding a rope whose other end his partner is clutching. Joe Rogan hosts.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS
Antiques Roadshow

A new season begins with the episode "St. Paul." Host Lara Spencer's trip to Minnesota includes a visit with antique boat enthusiasts. One of them is Todd Warner, who restores old boats for a living; he explains why the runabout is the most prized of old motorboats. Some surprises await the appraisers at the St. Paul RiverCentre, including a valuable armchair, and an ahead-of-its-time pocket watch worth about 10,000 Timexes.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS
Everybody Loves Raymond

Amy's (Monica Horan) parents, Hank and Pat (guest stars Fred Willard and Georgia Engel) are worried about their son, Peter (Chris Elliott), because he's still single. They ask Ray (Ray Romano) to give him some advice on how to woo and win the ladies. Patricia Heaton, Doris Roberts, Peter Boyle and Brad Garrett also star in the new episode "A Date for Peter."

8 p.m. on 38-WB
Everwood

Ephram's (Gregory Smith) application to a Colorado college makes Andy (Treat Williams) fear his son is giving up on attending Juilliard in "Shoot the Moon." Amy's (Emily VanCamp) decision to forgo Princeton to stay close to Ephram worries Harold (Tom Amandes). Andy works with Amanda (Anne Heche) and her unable-to-communicate husband (guest star Jason Beghe).

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

College Football

The undefeated Auburn Tigers would disagree, but the Orange Bowl national championship game between USC and Oklahoma pits the two most complete teams in college football. You want star power? How about four of the top five finishers in the Heisman Trophy race, topped by USC quarterback Matt Leinart (2,990 yards, 28 TDs). Oklahoma running back Adrian Peterson (1,643 yards) was second, Sooners QB Jason White finished third and Trojans RB Reggie Bush placed fifth.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Red Carpet Confidential

Nothing generates gossip about a star's look more than an appearance at an awards show. In this new special, "Entertainment Tonight" style guru Steven Cojocar — aka Cojo — and Lara Spencer ("The Insider," "Antiques Roadshow") talk with celebrities about looking good on the red carpet. Some, including Emily Procter and Queen Latifah, share their style secrets, while others, such as Leah Remini and Carrie Wilson, seek Cojo's advice.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

The Biggest Loser

Before moving on to their final weigh-in at the ranch, the contestants have a chance to exact a little "revenge" on trainers Jillian and Bob in this new episode. After all those weeks of killer workouts, they get to give the orders and watch the trainers sweat. Later, the participants look back on their experiences before the vote is taken that reduces the field to three. Caroline Rhea hosts.

8 p.m. on USA

Movie: The Relic

From the jungles of South America, a terrifying creature finds its way into a natural history museum, snacking on human pituitary glands and growing bigger and badder at every turn. And it's arrived just in time for the museum's big fund-raiser — can you say, "Pituitary smorgasbord"? Penelope Ann Miller, Tom Sizemore and Linda Hunt star in this gory 1997 thriller.

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Committed

This new sitcom takes the "opposites attract" formula to a new level. Josh

Cooke ("Century City") stars as Nate, a phobia-ridden New Yorker who hooks up with the free-spirited Marni (Jennifer Finnigan, "Crossing Jordan"), despite their personality differences and the strange roadblocks that life throws in their path — such as the fact that Marni has a dying clown (Tom Poston) living in her closet. Darius McCrary and Tammy Lynn Michaels also star.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

In "Lullaby," Amy (Amy Brenneman) hears the case of a teen (Amanda Barfield) who took her mother's car to go to her boyfriend's house at 3 a.m. Mom just wants to pay the fine and get it over with, but Amy has other ideas after learning why the girl did it. Later, she hands out an unconventional sentence to a gang member (Tara Correa-McMullen). A young mother (Chiara Fudge) who fears she'll hurt her children seeks help from Maxine (Tyne Daly).

Do You Speak American?

What did you have for lunch — a grinder, hoagie, hero or po' boy? Did you wash it down with soda, pop or tonic? And how do you address more than one person — you, y'all or youse? Newsman Robert MacNeil crosses the country in this new three-hour documentary, an enjoyable and informative look — and listen — at the rich, varied language we call English, American style, from Louisiana Cajun to California surfer-speak.

Along the way, hopefuls are eliminated until there's only one, who gets a record deal and $100,000. In the premiere, "We're Gonna Make Some Celine Dion Money," Elliott introduces her fellow judges, R&B star Teena Marie and producer Dallas Austin.

Martin Lawrence meets the Middle Ages in this 2001 comedy, which casts him as a worker at a medieval-themed amusement park. An accident transports him back to 14th-century England, where he applies his modern sensibilities to dealings with the sinister queen (Helen Carey) and others. Marsha Thomason plays a rebel for whom the time traveler falls, and Tom Wilkinson ("In the Bedroom") co-stars as a disgraced ex-knight.

Tune in, turn on and drop out with Dennis Hopper and Peter Fonda as two down-and-out motorcyclists in this classic road film about the 1960s counterculture. John Cusack and Kate Beckinsale star in this 2001 romance as two people who meet while shopping in New York and immediately hit it off. Suspecting this might be fate, she puts the attraction to a series of tests; it fails, and they part. Years later, they're on opposite coasts, engaged to others but still haunted by the memory of that night. Now all they have to do is find each other and see if they are indeed meant to be.

French: Stewart ("3rd Rock From the Sun") reprises the role of human resources rep Gene Schrimdlaine in the new episode "Emotions Eleven." He's waiting at the annual GNB corporate retreat with a list of everyone's shortcomings. After that, Claude's (Sara Rue) effort to organize a team-building exercise falls flat, and the crew decides to take off. Poker pro Phil Gordon also stars.

An unknown, deadly illness is striking down the residents of a seaside community in the new episode "Spiked." Dr. Connor (Neal McDonough) and the team arrive to investigate, and Connor starts to suspect a link between the mystery malady and the deaths of seals in the area. If there is one, then it's open season on seals — but not if one local doctor (guest star Marguerite MacIntyre) has anything to say about it.

In Focus

Previously seen on "Crossing Jordan" and "The Bold and the Beautiful," three-time Daytime Emmy winner Jennifer Finnigan teams with Josh Cooke ("Century City") to play offbeat lovebirds in "Committed," an NBC sitcom debuting Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Accustomed to making romantic connections that don't work out, their characters hook up by accident when they're supposed to be on blind dates with other people. They have a great time, but fear of going beyond that one dinner may halt their potential.

How strong can blood ties remain when a family fortune is up for grabs? Host Tony Noakes helps provide related answers as the unscripted series "The Will" premieres Saturday, Jan. 8, on CBS.

Any one of 10 people could end up inheriting the wealth of a clan's patriarch, whom they must please - not unlike the relationship of contestants on "The Apprentice" to Donald Trump - as they tackle various challenges and do their best to keep from being eliminated from the contest.

The Will

The meek may inherit the Earth, but who's going to inherit the money? In this new-reality series, 10 relatives and friends of a wealthy patriarch are put through their paces in a competition for a big piece of his estate. The winner will be the one who not only comes out ahead in the various challenges but stays on the man's good side.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Battlestar Galactica

The late-1970s science-fiction show gets a high-tech overhaul with this updated 2003 miniseries, which airs here in abbreviated form to generate buzz for the upcoming "Galactica" series on Sci-Fi Channel. Edward James Olmos stars as Commander Adama, who leads the survivors of an attack by Cylons — lethal robots, some of which now resemble humans — in a quest to reach safety. Jai Rodriguez and Katee Sackhoff also star.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Movie: Leviathan

Who knew Pandora was a Russian sailor? In this cheesy 1989 sci-fi tale, underwater miners pluck a watertight safe from a sunken Soviet ship and bring it back to their base. It turns out the ship was a floating lab for genetic experiments that went awry — a fact the miners discover when one of their number mutates into a monster. Peter Weller ("RoboCop"), Richard Crenna ("Judging Amy") and Amanda Pays star.

7 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: Chinatown

This 1974 film noir garnered 11 Oscar nominations and won writer Robert Towne ("Shampoo," "Mission Impossible") a statuette for best original screenplay. Jack Nicholson plays Jake Gittes, a private detective hired to investigate a seemingly routine adultery case. When the husband turns up dead, Gittes realizes much more than sinister forces are at work. Faye Dunaway and John Huston also star in this Roman Polanski film.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Along Came Polly

Reuben (Ben Stiller) is an uptight insurance analyst whose wife (Debra Messing) cheats on him during their honeymoon. Persuaded by friends to get back out into the dating scene, he attends a party and meets a former school-mate (Jennifer Aniston), whose free-spirited, disorganized style virtually screams, "Not your type, Reuben!" Nevertheless, he finds himself falling for her. Hank Azaria and Alec Baldwin also star in this 2004 romantic comedy.
